The manicurist acetone-wrapped me and walked away without saying anything. Some time later another one came over and all the cotton had stuck to my nails from being left too long; they had to do it all over again. Then the dip SNS manicure came out terribly, ugly ragged paint "line" extending over my cuticles and paint on my finger pads. I asked the manicurist to correct it, but she was curt with me. When I got home I Facebook messaged the owner who at least apologized and agreed to correct it. However when I went back 2 days later at 10:30am (sign says they open at 10) the door was locked. A woman in a nearby parked car said she'd called them and found out they were running late driving down from Burlington. Another patron walked up and I passed on the message I'd just heard; she replied, "They're always running late." I waited in my car until 10:40, and then I left and will never return.

Christina Ensalata I'll also add that they are expensive. $23 for lip and brow wax when I can get the same for $15 in South Burlington. Here's a pic from my manicure:
